German-born composer Johannes Brahms (1833–1897),— an important figure of the Romantic era,— spent most of his career at the forefront of the Viennese musical scene. A master of counterpoint, he wrote for piano, chamber ensembles, symphony orchestras, and voice.

These are my favorite symphonic works of all time. It's such a blessing to be able to follow along with the score as I listen to the unparalleled lyric and dramatic strains of these two concerti. The score is perfect for any music lover with sufficient musical literacy to follow the amazing progress of these two great musical treasures. Highly recommended!
