Mykel Hawke is a Green Beret combat veteran and Captain (Ret.) in the U.S. Army Special Forces; Director of Spec Ops Inc (an international outdoor-survival training company); and popular television survival expert from the Discovery Channel's hit shows Man, Woman, Wild and One Man Army. He has also appeared on the History Channel, MTV, Channel 5 in the UK, and more. Mykel holds multiple educational degrees and black belts, has had several medical certifications, and speaks numerous languages.

Excellent, addressing the #1 survival detail: your attitude. Plainly written, easily understood. Instead of a chore to read, I was drawn on to continue and engage my granddaughter in a conversation as well. We Horseback ride in the wilderness, and while I have basics in my saddlebags, I went out and got a cross-body small bag and filled it with knife, magnesium fire starter, compass, space blanket sleeping bag, extra whistle, etc. as what happens if I am separated from my horse and gear? Just that awareness alone was worth the cost of the book. I grew up in the mountains learning more is always better. Very readable and I highly recommend. Not an arrogant treatise.

Kind of biased here, as the kids and I loved watching "Man, Woman, Wild." Sure, it was a silly show, but I think Mykel Hawke was able to keep from taking himself too seriously, and he clearly has the knowledge to survive in any situation. Also, he is legit, as opposed to some other wanna-be Valor thieves who should have been vetted long before they were ever allowed to step in front of a camera and pretend that they were survival experts. All that to say, the book is pretty cool, with good information in it. Easy to read, portable, and breaks things down into a simple explanation so that the layman could understand the concepts.

I love this book soo much! I am soo intrigued by the immense detail, advice and knowledge from Mykes first hand experiences. Every survival tv show, or book Ive ever read doesnt come close to the detail Myke gives!! The only book you need! More informative than any other.

Prepping? Trying to fill as much knowledge as possible for the upcoming disaster that's going to take the u.s.a. down? Buy it you won't be disappointed full of great survival information

Still reading this one, but it's a great book with lots of useful information. This book seems like the full version of Mykel's other book -

My 11 year old son was immediately drawn in to Hawke's style of writing. And so was I. I couldn't believe I chanced upon this book when I was checking out BestMadeCo.com's outdoor gear. Instead of their survival manual I went in search of one that looked like a "good read." This is it, folks. His upbringing add to the basics of survival. Although heartwrenching, he doesn't dwell on it and he doesn't have you dwell on negativity either. The first step is to stay positive. Because you need that energy to think and survive. Not wallow in the problem. This is the first book on survival that is actually entertaining, witty, and to the point that I have read. My son can't wait to get home and read it.

Mr Hawke is clearly a master at what he does, and his book is a great reflection of his skills and knowledge on this subject. I was particularly impressed that he also focused on the psychological aspects of survival, and his section on "givers and takers" should be required reading for "office survival" in the modern corporate working world. As for the survival parts, I found them interesting and hope I never have to use any of them. But it's all good know anyway, and I am glad that we have people like Mr Hawke training people to keep the USA safe.

I've all of the most respected survival manuals - this one is probably the best as far as realistic situations are concerned.
