Linda Gassenheimer is a syndicated food columnist, radio host, author, and chef. She has five award-winning cookbooks, a Dinner in Minutes newspaper column distributed to 400 newspapers nationwide, and has appeared on Good Morning America and the Food Network.

Excellent book. Contains meal ideas, the recipe, and a shopping list. Very helpful! Well done!

I have several of Linda's cookbooks. She puts together nutritional meals that are very tasty. She also lays out meal plans with the recipes and shopping lists taking the work out of meal planning. I no longer have to try to put together a variety of meals and try to determine if they are healthy. Linda has done all the work for you. The best part is it makes losing weight easy!

The ONLY MIX AND MATCH thing about the book is 4 pages in the introduction of the book that list all the recipes in a weekly breakfast dinner lunch diagram. Otherwise the 4 pages it is a REGULAR COOKBOOK for diabetics. The ONLY other cool thing is that it does have a shopping list for each recipe. You could say, I'M NOT TOO IMPRESSED.

All recipes are quite simple and surprisingly quick to make. Most meals can be made in 20 minutes or less. The best part is each recipe feeds only two people, which for us means no leftovers and that makes portion control a cinch. It doesn't matter if you are diabetic or not everything is still good.

An excellent book for help in avoiding bad things for diabetics. Unfortunately the resulting salt content for most recommended foods/meals is way too high.... blood pressure issues start to come into play. Bland meals require sodium to compensate.....but try buying any prepared foods without swallowing half the dead sea.

I like the variety of recipes and the instructions were easy to follow it was helpful for a individual starting down the diabetic recipe path

This book is great for menu planning / grocery list. Should be invaluable for one who is trying to WATCH their carb intake !!!

This book is ok for diabetics. For me the breakfast recipes are better than the others. Overall it is well worth the price.
