As Storey's publisher and editorial director, Deborah heads up efforts to acquire and publish outstanding, long-lasting nonfiction books that support the company's mission of promoting personal independence in harmony with the environment. She works with a group of passionate editors who seek out promotable authors with deep, hands-on knowledge and wisdom on topics ranging from gardening and farming to crafts, cooking, building, outdoor living, natural well-being, and creativity for both adults and children. Since joining Storey in 1993, Deborah has conceived and edited many best-selling titles that reflect her personal interests in herbal medicine, crafts, and nature journaling. Sarah Guare is a Project Editor at Storey Publishing, where she edits books on a variety of subjects, from gardening to cooking to herbalism.

As a 1st grade teacher, I am always trying to find fun non-fiction to bring into my classroom. This poster book is a lot of fun for my students. The posters tear out of the book. They feature an animal on the front and information about that animal on the back. They can easily be used for animal reports. The pictures are vivid and colorful and the kids love them. The posters are a little larger than a piece of construction paper.

Beautiful picture book full of interesting information about 30 different animals. My two sons (8 and 11) really loved this book. They have asked me to buy them some of the other books in the series.

My son's preschool teacher had "animal posters" on her classroom wish list, so I bought this lovely book for that purpose. For some reason, it was much less expensive than the other books in the series (approximately a third of the price), which made it a great bargain.

My daughter wanted this book when her school was hosting a book fair, but they sold out before she could get one! But, Santa came through and brought it for her. She loves it, great photos and information on the back...it's a poster book so she's been wanting to take some out and hang them in her room...just a matter of time I think!

This is my students favorite poster book! We use it to write non-fiction articles. The children love the photos and constantly ask what will we write about next! They have learned so much from the interesting facts on the back of each photo.

great pictures. My roommate and I just wanted a few posters to put in our dorm, and as pre-vet majors, we liked these little critters

I took out the photographs and laminated them to display on a wall for a creation themed party. The colors were still very vivid and the pictures are visually interesting. Everyone loved them.
