Mr. Fixer Upper

Synopsis

Gannon came from loud, passionate Italian stock that wasn't afraid to smash a plate to make a statement. Paige, on the other hand, systematically choked down any temper and, with frosty efficiency, made him dance like a damn puppet. From the Wall Street Journal and bestselling author comes a new standalone novel. Gannon King is great with his hands and--if you believe what you read on Twitter--he's "sex in a toolbelt." The reality TV star learned his lesson about falling for pretty packages the hard, painful, humiliating way and he's not making that mistake again. Sure, "Legs" is gorgeous as hell and smart-mouthed--two of his favorite qualities in a woman. But she's an icy network kiss-ass. At least, that's what he thinks until he catches her being human. Field producer Paige St. James has zero time for temperamental stars, especially Gannon who does his best to get under her skin. She's got plans to get out of reality TV and do something that matters. But ratings are king and, when Paige and Gannon's sparks are captured by cameras, the network smells a time slot victory. After an on-set accident and a vindictive celebrity "girlfriend," Paige finds her reputation in tatters and her job hanging by a thread. She never should have trusted him...But now that he's gotten those talented hands on her, Gannon's never letting go.

Customer Reviews

Gannon King, builder, reality TV star and furniture craftsman is author, Lucy Score's newest leading man. He's gorgeous, sexy, and a distraction Paige St. James can't afford. After all, she is an associate producer for his tv show and she's determined to prove herself in a male dominated profession. Sparks are flying as these two butt heads both personally and professionally! Paige knows Gannon brings new meaning to being hammered, nailed and screwed. However, she just doesn't want to be his next project and he's not taking no as an answer. Now the network has picked up on their chemistry and sees them as ratings gold! Having read all of Ms. Score's books, Mr. Fixer Upper ranks up there as one of her best! Her character development is phenomenal and her plots are well constructed. She also gifts her reader with humor, excellent editing and gorgeous covers. Mr. Fixer Upper is a wonderful standalone...but be sure and check out all her other books. They're all just as superb!!!

Sigh, Paige and Gannon. What can I say? I am still stuck in their world. And honestly, I'm not sure I want to get out of it. There was this shower scene. Ok, well, maybe more than one. But this particular shower scene was amazing and wonderful and sweet and broke me a little. Oh, did I mention there was no sex in this scene? Because there wasn't. And it was still unbelievable. So Gannon King is a hotshot, hot-tempered, handyman god, who along with his sister Cat, is the star of the reality TV show King's Construction. Paige St. James, affectionately known as BeastMode by her co-workers, is the field producer/jack of all trades on the set. Gannon thinks that Paige is an uptight, bottom-line oriented lackey for the bossmen. Paige thinks Gannon is a temperamental, over-hyped manwhore. The two of them regularly butt heads. But it turns out that neither is what the other believes. An open and honest conversation, begun by Gannon, reveals Gannon's true motivation for being on the show, his loyalty to his crew and his love of his grandmother and his desire to focus on custom-making furniture. And Gannon discovers that Paige is actually working on the show in order to save money to produce a documentary on inequality and sexism and that she has aspirations of directing and producing. The two develop a new respect for each other, which morphs into a friendship that eventually crosses the line into deeper feelings. But there are SO many amazing scenes where the two spend time just being comfortable with each other, and even better, being vulnerable. Gannon always takes the lead on showing Paige that it is ok to lean on others, and that strength sometimes holds you back from what you really want. Family, from both sides, plays a critical role in how their relationship plays out. And Gannon goes all in during his quest to win Paige's trust and her heart. This book will make you smile, laugh, cry and swoon. There is no part of it that is not important, or finely crafted. Lucy Score has created a couple and a book that will stick with you long after you read the last word.

I loved Lucy Score ever since reading "Pretend Your Mine" a couple years ago, and have read every one of her books. Of course Mr. Fixer Upper was an easy buy for me and I bought it the day it came out which was yesterday, but the timing couldn't be worse for me personally! I am hosting 100 people at my house today for my daughter's graduation and needed to cook and clean, but said to myself, I'll just take a break and read a chapter! Well, I loved the book from page one and party be damned, because I read the entire book until 2 am last night. I love to read, and read almost 200 books a year. I am always impressed that in each of Lucy's books, the main characters all have different careers and goals and so much personality. I really feel like I know them. I loved Gannon and the fact that he had strong family ties and was committed to making it work with Paige. I also like a guy with natural talent and this guy had it in spades as he was a talented carpenter, general contractor and cabinetmaker (furniture maker)! I read so many books where the leading man is a billionaire, can't commit, broken, or a jerk, and it's refreshing to see the "hero" is like an normal person, who in this book, happens to also be famous as he is a reality TV star. I loved Paige and felt her pain in her job insecurities and her relationship with her mother. I always like a strong heroine and felt that Paige was someone I could relate to, and was proud of her for being exceptional at her job and fighting for what she believed was right in the TV industry. It did take her awhile to come around to Gannon (thus my reading and reading while I had so much else to do), but I was very happy with the ending!

Paige is production assistant on the reality show 'Kings of Construction', where Gannon King and his twin sister Cat rebuild houses in a week for families (think Extreme Makeover with Ty Pennington). It is season 2 and the network execs want to use a Paige/Gannon angle after Cat puts a picture on Instagram of them together on a plane. And yes, there is something there but Paige is afraid her career will suffer if she sleeps with Gannon. So they keep it hidden. But then his supposed girlfriend visits the set and Paige puts a stop to their affair. I was very entertained by the storyline of the reality tv show. Plus I loved the banter and hotness of Paige and Gannon. I knew something was going to happen (we were not on the 50% mark yet) and at first thought the drama a bit too overdone. Paige was really stubborn and I wanted to shake her. Gannon could have tried harder too in my opinion. But as I read on I was happy to find Gannon calling Paige on her bullsh*t. He told her exactly what I was thinking! And then the story started to make sense again and I was happy I did not give up. I still think they let the network get away with way too much, but hey. Great ending and nice epilogue. I could close the book with a satisfied sigh.
