We used this study as a boys' Bible study over the summer. It was a perfect format for my 6th grade boys' group. I am confident that they learned not only some wonderful truths from the book of John, but also Bible study skills that I pray they will take with them throughout their Christian walks. Thank you for this series! It remains as relevant in 2017 as it was when it was published 18 years ago.

My husband and son (age 9) participate in a Father/Son bible study. This book was a great tool for creating one-on-one time at home for the two men in my life, as well as facilitating great conversation in their group study. Highly recommend. Boys ages in this study range from 8 to 11.

Great for kids

Love this series of workbooks for kids! Teaching my Grandkids about the Bible . The workbooks are very understandable and have questions and things to do to help the kids understand what they are studying. We studied the Books on Revelations and they absolutely loved studying Revelations.

I have looked at these Kay Arthur Kid studies for years because I have been leading Precept Inductive studies since 2000. My kids are just the right age for them. I have two boys in 4th and 6th grade, and they are loving this study. They make storyboards and search for key words and answer 5 W and an H questions, and they are really enjoying it. We do it every other day during our Bible time in homeschool. As a special bonus, since we are making a "movie" of the book of John, we watch The Gospel of John on DVD. It is a word-for-word script of the book of John. It is great for them to see an actual movie interpretation for the chapter they just studied inductively. It is a hit so far!

My daughters are always asking to do one of my Beth Moore studies with me, but they are a bit over their heads. This one is perfect for elementary/middle school aged kids wanting to learn more about the bible. My only wish is that Kay Arthur used the NIV, NKJV or NLT instead of the NASB....it was the only version we did not already own!

Great! My nine year old loves this and does it by herself in the mornings!!

I may have jumped the gun on buying this. It was a bit beyond what my daughter was ready for. I think for our family just being in God's word and talking about it as a family is enough for now. This gets pretty deep with all the questions and such.
