Rwanda & Burundi 1:300,000 Travel Map (International Travel Maps)

Synopsis

The two central African countries of Rwanda and Burundi are gradually returning to prosperity. They are both very interesting countries, scenically attractive, and relatively untouched by modernism. Both have suffered serious unrest in the past, but have moved on and are determined to have a bright and happy future. The people are marvelous; one can't express in a brief paragraph the warmth and friendliness of the ordinary people of both countries. This is really a part of Africa everyone should visit. An folded, indexed easy-to-use road map of Rwanda and Burundi to plan your trip, to prepare your itinerary, and to travel independently in these African countries. Inset maps of Kigali and Bujumbara. Touristic information: points of interest, airports, religious buildings, hotels, lodging, hospitals, clinics, gas stations, caves, ports, telephones, post-offices, forests, national parks, tracks and paths, ferry routes on Kivu Lake.

Get the map before you go to Rwanda. I seemed to be the only person in the country w a map.

Very general map which is not terribly useful but does help in locating villages and topographical locations. I would not purchase again this map or from this series.

This map did not meet our expectations. It was lightweight paper. The major roads were marked but none of the secondary roads were numbered. They were on the map but no identification.

reasonably accurate....the country has changed the name to most towns in Rwanda so the names in this version of the map do not match

It is exactly what I was looking for. Where else can you find a map of African countries? Thank you.

This is by far the best travel map of Rwanda you can get. But although it seems to be published in 2010 the information it contains is nearly twenty years old (somewhere is mentioned it originally has been drawn for the benefit of NGOs working in Rwanda after the genocide of 1994). All major town have now got new names, which are not on the map, but the provinces and districts do have their new names. Also the boundaries of Akagera NP have not been adjusted. A third of the park was degazetted in 1997. This map is not for sale in Rwanda - at least I didn't encounter it anywhere. So buy it before you visit Rwanda. You will make people jealous when you show it to them!
