Founded in 1915 as the Cartographic Group, the first division of National Geographic, National Geographic Maps has been responsible for illustrating the world around us through the art and science of mapmaking. Today, National Geographic Maps continues this mission by creating the world's best wall maps, recreation maps, atlases, and globes which inspire people to care about and explore their world.

I used this map to chart a two week safari as a momento. It's good quality and will be a keepsake. Anyone who is thinking of driving themselves in Kenya should stay home!

This map would be great for whole-country touring of national parks and heritage sites. Roads among the major cities are shown along with ways that these connect to the main destinations for foreign travelers, and there are helpful symbols for different sorts of features at the various sites. What I need, however, is a country map that includes city maps of Mombasa, Nairobi, and Kisumu. I was hoping that this map would include insets; I wanted NG authority and detail at a local as well as country-wide level. Alas, nothing. I need paper maps--wandering around Mombasa holding an ipad ahead of me is not preferred--and these don't seem to be available outside of stores in those cities. Oh well. National Geographic: there's a new map opportunity for you!

We spent 2 weeks in Kenya, visiting Nairobi, four animal parks and Lake Turkana. We wanted a good Kenya map to keep track of our travels. This map had good detail and was durable. The only negative was it was a little out-of-date, showing a major road as only under construction.

Product arrived earlier than predicted. The map is very detailed and apparently accurate. Nature reserves are clearly indicated and a number of extra information is also included, for example a number of the climbing huts on Mt Kenya. Very pleased with my purchase, though the postage costs nearly equalled the original buying cost!

Perfect for my project

Planning a trip next year to Kenya. This map looks sturdy to take along!

Good sturdy map. Looks like it will hold up very well on my trip. My only complaint is how they chose what goes on which side.

Great for my Africa trip...
