Havilah Malone is a #1 Best Selling Author & Inspirational Speaker from New Orleans who graduated from college at the age of nineteen. She is the visionary leader of Proof of Whatâ™s Possible, Inc. which specializes in personal & business development for entrepreneurs & leaders. Malone has been featured on Fox, NBC, CBS, Huffington Post and more. Havilah attributes much of her success to Napoleon Hillâ™s principles she learned as a youth. She gives back to leaders of the next generation as a youth advocate and founder of the non-profit foundation Living Beyond the Box, Inc. Their premiere program Everybody Loves Barbie is a self-empowerment movement that helps youth break the silence of abuse. Havilah is a Master Certified Practitioner of NLP (neuro-linguistic programming) and she is a Certified Instructor for the Napoleon Hill Foundation. Diane Lampe is President and COO of The Lampe Company, LLC., a multi-million dollar financial services business she owns and operates with her husband, Bill. Diane has used Napoleon Hill's master work, The Law of Success, in their business for the past 10 years. She attributes much of their success to understanding and teaching the Napoleon Hill 17 principles of success. As a mother and recent grandmother, she has spent years in raising their children to believe that the path to success is thru applying these success principles and now taking to the next generation. A best-selling author, she recently achieved international recognition with the Napoleon Hill Foundation Leader Certification program.

What took you so long ? I've been long awaiting a book like this , I knew it would show up ! Do we realize the position we are in , as instructors , parents ,guardians ,Home schooled teachers , Private &Public Schools teachers ! This book teaches children the most powerful principles in the world ! Life most challenging and difficult questions are satisfied through this beautifully illustrated book ! Valuable Lessons are taught in 17 short stories that are based on the 17 Principles for Success by the Guru of Personal Growth & Development Mr. Napoleon Hill . The majority of mankind have not exposed themselves to these powerful principles and wonder why they fail ! What an incredibly unbelievable opportunity we and the children have !! thank the Author of this book !

The Amazing Adventures of Oliver Hill is a fabulous inspiring children's book based on the renowned Napoleon Hill's award-winning Think and Grow Rich. My grandchildren, boys ages 4 and 1, will hear these stories over and over again, as this book teaches seventeen valuable principles for positive living today! The 4-year-old already enjoys The Amazing Lemonade Stand, story. This powerful reading is for children of all ages, simple lessons for adults too!THANK YOU!

Awesome, awesome awesome we can finally teach our children these fantastic principles. These are lessons more valuable than half of the things taught in schools today. I can't wait to see how these 17 Principles contribute to my daughter and nieces successes!!!!

Great book! Love how meaningful the morals of the stories are for my son. Can't wait to read them over and over as he gets older!Highly recommend for children of any age.

Purchased it for my grandson, but it has lessons for all ages!

This book is a must! To help instill self confidence and character building in Kids. I will probably read this over and over again to my six year old.

This book is a wonderful example of following the ideas it brings forth. What a wonderful way to inspire children with their own untapped abilities to find happiness in life. Thank you! My nine year old daughter really enjoys it.

First of all, I am familiar with Co-Author Havilah Malone's altruistic work with children. When given the opportunity to check out this publication, I was excited about the whole concept even though I do not have children of my own. So here's my take on it....Once I started reading, I couldn't stop and finished all 17 principles in one sitting! I truly wish I would have been exposed to the success principles in Napoleon Hill's, Think and Grow Rich, in the manner in which Havilah and Diane crafted the principles into stories for children. I am an admitted self-improvement book junkie and I am amazed by the lessons in such short story content. The stories are very easy to read and understand. What impressed me most is the brevity, rhyming technique used, meaning and layered lessons (Like Principle #7 - Positive Mental Attitude (Olivia's New Bike). This principle also had lessons of perseverance, working together, importance of having a vision, resourcefulness, asking for help, preparing for what you want to accomplish, and learning to see things differently, even if it doesn't end as planned.)Principal #13 - Learning From Adversity and Defeat (From Ashes to Black Gold) reminded me of a children's version of the adult short story Acres of Diamonds by finding treasure right at home. Then there's Principle #16 - Budgeting Time and Money (Pay Yourself First) which touches on managing time and money. Not an easy topic for adults! Wow, this was an excellent story to help lay the groundwork and good habits early. I was inspired by reading the stories and can only imagine the inspiration other adults will get when reading the stories to children. The foreword is a perfect introduction to the stories as it emphasizes the importance of reading and its positive impact on children. After reading the stories, there is a brief description of each principle which can be super helpful as children grow into adolescence to young adults. It's as if the book can be a constant reminder at any age. And to top it off, there is a book resource section that breaks down resources for each of the principles. Lots of information condensed in a beautifully illustrated book.Overall, great idea to take the classic Think and Grow Rich and formulate it into a digestible format for the younger generation. Kudos for helping to sow seeds of positive self-worth and greatness in children from an early age (or whenever), providing helpful tools to be good citizens and build successful lives...just a priceless gift for all children. I think I'll go read it again. :-)
